CUES Bolsters Its Online Event Schedule with Directors & Dialogue December

MADISON, Wis.— Credit union board members will have the opportunity to learn from top-rated speakers and connect with their colleagues during Directors & Dialogue December, happening over the course of three afternoons this winter.

“We’re happy to bring the online conference experience to the industry’s directors and committee members,” said John Pembroke, CUES President/CEO. “Directors & Dialogue December will be a unique and engaging experience for the industry. Attendees will find the same great content that CUES is known for, just in a different platform. We’ve scheduled time for learning and questions, plus an open slot for timely and relevant topics to be determined closer to the event, so we can explore and discuss the latest industry happenings.”

“Attendees will find a good mix of education and camaraderie with Directors & Dialogue December,” said Joette Mitchell, CUES VP/Executive Education & Meetings. “And, we’re offering flat-fee pricing, so credit unions can sign their entire board up, and include as many committee and staff members as they want, for one low price. This event for board members, along with our Knowledge & Networking November event, for all credit union staff, provide the best value in the industry, at a time when credit unions need it the most.”

Sessions will be held from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. Eastern time on December 2, 9 and 16. Topics and presenters are:
